Nationally known for his “audience appeal” programs, and especially dedicated to reaching youth and youngsters, CJ has devoted his performance career towards promoting an understanding of and an appreciation for the pipe organ in today’s society.

Cj is a resident of Brick, New Jersey, and is an Organ Performance graduate of Westminster Choir College. Over the past 24 years, he has performed extensively throughout the United States. He frequently serves as a conference clinician and performer, leading workshops in basic organ applications designed to provide helpful techniques for the many organists who have not had formal college training. He has served as a consultant to churches considering a new organ installation. Whenever Cj is not away performing, he is found somewhere on an organ bench, substituting or playing for a church that is unable to secure a permanent organist.

“The Pipe Organ INformance”, which was developed and presented by CJ Sambach, explores the instrument’s vast tonal resources and explains its many fascinating facets. CJ makes the music and the organ FUN!!!!
